Washington Township: International Baccalaureate for All Students

By Ariana Rawls Fine, MSDWT Administration, November 2014

When school choice is abundant in a large urban public school system, innovation is key. So, in 2009, the Washington Township School District implemented the International Baccalaureate (IB) framework for teaching and learning for its 11,000 students and 1,500 staff.

IB had been offered since 1998 to its North Central High School junior and senior students. The district adopted the IB Primary Years Program for grades K through 5 and the IB Middle Years Program for grade 6 through 10, which is still awaiting authorization.

With IB, which requires a high level of curriculum alignment and inquiry-based instruction, the district has increased teacher effectiveness and student achievement, setting record levels on state standardized tests. There is also greater strategic leadership by administrators and fewer student discipline issues.

"One of the things that I am enjoying most about the children going to an IB school is that they are being taught how to think for themselves," says Sarah Manion, a Washington Township parent. "They will have started kindergarten with learning how to come up with answers on their own."

Through the community service and action components of IB, the Washington Township community has been engaged with student learning. The district has raised nearly $1 million from private funds to support IB.

In recognition of the innovation and success of this initiative, Washington Township has been named a District of Distinction by District Administration. The district was among 49 districts that were honored in the inaugural round of Districts of Distinction, the magazine's new national recognition program.

"We are pleased to honor Washington Township as a District of Distinction," says JD Solomon, editorial director at District Administration magazine. "Like all our honorees, Washington Township serves as a model for school leaders across the country."

Additionally, the district serves as a constant professional development (PD) hub for inquiry-based instruction. It hosts school teams interested in IB on a monthly basis and hosts large on-site PD sessions that are open to other districts.

Recent Crime Watch Incident - Typical of many neighbors' encounters involving Richard Adams. Thanks to all who promptly reported him! With your leads, IMPD arrested Richard Adams, who has now returned to jail. Hi Joe!

This guy knocked on my door Saturday (Dec.27th) at Midnight. I peeked out to see who it was just as he was crossing my yard. I yelled at him and asked him what he wanted. I did not unlock or open the storm door. He stood back at a distance & apologized for disturbing me so late. He claimed he lived down the street and mentioned my neighbors - "The Millers". I have friends by that name in the neighborhood. He said he had to work late and when he got home, he accidentally locked keys in his car. He said his wife was at Walgreens and asked to use my phone to call her. I said I would call her on my cell for him. He gave me the number - which was "no longer in service". Then he asked for a ride to Walgreens so he could get key from her. I said No. He asked if I knew of any neighbor who might be willing to help him. I told him he might try again since I knew he was home - many of his lights were on. He agreed and left. I called my neighbor to warn him. I kept my neighbor on the phone the entire time while he got ride from him. When they got to Walgreens - he claimed she was not there - - - etc, and had him drive up Keystone to 71st and Rural. He claimed his wife was at a home nearby and got out of the car. After the whole ordeal, I called 911 and reported it. I realize now I should have called 911 sooner, however he was very convincing. Hope he gets caught before someone gets hurt. You may share this story with the others. From: A Neighbor on North Chester Avenue.
